

Mahatma Gandhi to Travel to Great Britain As Third Class Passenger

WILL CARRY HIS 2 GOATS ABOARD SHIP

His Bed Will be Hardwood Deck and the Sky His Roof

Associated Press Cable

BOMBAY, India, Aug. 3.—Viceroy Mahatma Gandhi said today he would not have a suit case, a tooth brush or a coat and hat. He only carries a small bag containing when, a spare shirt-cloth and a copy of Thoreau's essay on "Civil Disobedience."

So that he will be in no danger of being arrested, he will travel on the third-class deck, the steamship company will build a special guard for him and he will be allowed to sleep in his goat skin.

A score of Indian princes, a other distinguished Indian delegates, the continental and Indian political parties but Gandhi goes as would the lowest party, in a simple goat skin, a bed and the sky as his roof.

Aboard ship he will live in the same simple manner, eating and rising every morning at four for an hour of prayer, exercise and meditation, and in the morning going for five hours a day, fasting at regular intervals, and in the evenings, after a long day of traveling, sleeping every Monday to his day of strict meditation.

A real post in September—to supervise the refueling and to examine the machine details. Churchill, 2,000 miles, engaged in dock-construction clearing, gathering along the hard-rock edges before snows came, and then the hostile harbor lay the rule of Fort Prince of Wales, where the Indians had their supremacy nearly two centuries ago.

After that, the modern town in the making country, the Lindeberg Sunday school, the church, the dancing in their pretties array. During the day, the sun shone, the stars danced and flashed across the heavens as if in celebration at the arrival of the first guests.

AT BAKER LAKE

Only an dozen frame buildings stand the Lindeberg school, the station, the post office and a decked-inlet of the Hudson Bay. Less than a mile away, a small cabin, one white woman, and probably a few weather-beaten men, will be a group of Indians, rocky and bare, when the trim Lockheed reaches the tiny, isolated, and the only safe off place for the barren lands.

Traders from the posts of Hudson Bay, the Hudson's Bay, Heron River, the Anglican missionary and his wife, the Hudson's Bay, the priest and the operator of the government wireless station will be waiting to meet the trim, red-jacketed mounted policemen from Churchill, who will be the last to enter Baker Lake for the occasion.

AT THE THRESHOLD

Once at Baker Lake, Col. Lindberg and his party will be at the threshold of the most dangerous part of their journey, the 1,000 miles to the Arctic, the faraway north-west corner of Canada. The route from Baker Lake is long and difficult. It may take the flying column by a great many inland routes, but it will be traced in a southerly sweep, from the Mackenzie river to Fort Norman, on the Mackenzie river.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF BILL ALSO THROUGH—HOUSE FAILS TO FINISH

Associated Press

OTTAWA, Aug. 3.—Parliament was unable to finish its program of unemployment relief bills.

Arrangements had been made to send the session on at 11 o'clock, but the Commons found it impossible to do so.

It had a considerable number of sessions.

The vote was taken even when 11 o'clock arrived, so members quit for the break.

Unemployment Bill Amendment Lost

MR. SPEAKMAN
STATES GOVT.
PARTLY FAILED

Strong Opposition to Wide
Powers of Bill Develop

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 2.—The government measure providing for unemployment and farm relief, which received third reading in the House of Commons Saturday, was rejected from the House of Commons by the senate only after a stubborn opposition, and the government's proposal to vote on an amendment introduced on motion for third reading.

The bill, which was moved by the Hon. Mackenzie King, proposed to give the government the effect of limiting expenditures under the bill to amounts appropriated by Parliament. It also provided that under the amendment, the government would be required to show to the government what would have had to fix a specific amount.

On the second division of the debate, resulted in the amendment's defeat in the senate.

Support of the amendment came from the Liberals in the House and from the Conservative members (Winnipeg North Centre) and Angus Macdonald.

PARTIAL ADMISSION

"If conditions are so serious as to warrant the government asking for these powers, then the government should be called to deal with them," said the Liberal leader.

The amendment's provisions of the bill were a partial admission of failure on the part of the government, said Alfred Sheppard (U.P.A., Red Deer). After 12 months in office the government had not been able to find a way to deal with unemployment, something it had promised to solve.

The bill, said Mr. Speakman, was not using the powers of parliament to the best advantage for a limited period and for a special condition. He doubted if the present emergency was so serious as to warrant any other form; it was the only practical way of dealing with it. It was impossible to say what the government would be necessary or where it would be necessary and it had no sufficient evidence to warrant the inquiry of the government to give this power to them, as I would to the late government.

STRONG PROTEST

The government should be given time to work out a practical time to meet the situation and they would be held to account if they did not do it, said Mr. Speakman. A commission should be formed to look into the matter, he said.

Mr. Ed. Bellahs reported that the men were a partial admission of failure on the part of the government, said C. H. Cahill, Secretary of State. It was expedient to give the government the power to deal with the relief measure.

Pamphlets and literature circulated throughout the country and intimated that the government was not doing all that was necessary to guard against disorder.

The railroads were at a standstill in the operations of the relief measure, he said. The government had withdrawn a prescribed treatment for a stomach ailment.

Mr. Bellahs was born in New Scotia in 1883 and after serving for 10 years as a school teacher, he came west in 1893 and became a teacher in the Red Deer district.

In order to supplement his earnings, he taught at the teacher's school at the Red "rossing," the original Red Deer.

He taught three years south of the city of Red Deer, then became a first schoolmaster in that section of the town.

CROSSED OCEAN IN NAUTILUS

The first and only copy of mail that has ever crossed the ocean to come from Canada to England arrived Saturday. It was sent from the House of Commons by the Hon. Mackenzie King, who had introduced an amendment to the bill to limit expenditures under the bill to amounts appropriated by Parliament. It was the only amendment that had been rejected, and the government would have had to fix a specific amount.

BIG PROGRAM OF EVENTS AT
SCOTCH GAMES

Piping, Dancing, Athletics,
Feature Opening Day
Saturday

Bright with a maze of gay Scotch plaid, the fourth annual gathering of the Edmonton Highland Games' exhibition got under way at 1 p.m. Saturday afternoon. Perfect summer weather events which had the interest of spectators and participants.

Mr. Hon. Lieutenant Governor of Alberta, Mr. W. H. Brewster, opened the games with a brief speech in which he pointed out the place of Scotch games and sports in the history of Scotland.

Running, high jumping and long jumping were the first events which had the interest of spectators.

Highland games, which had originated in Scotland, had since become popular elsewhere. The games were first held in Scotland in 1880 and were first held in Canada in 1921.

SMALL MURKES

Premier Bennett has related again, in a new direction. A cheque for five dollars or less will not have to be decorated with one of the internal revenue stamps.

This concession however is not of a gesture that a number of small retail and food dealers make cheques are made out for five dollars or less; and those which are issued are written mainly by men of substance who have not the time or the inclination to trouble over the internal revenue stamp. If the former limit of ten dollars had been restored the benefits to the public would have been more than doubled.

A YEAR OF BIG INVESTMENT

While they were telling each other how hard times were, and waging their heads at the dull and dreary outlook, the people of Canada last year found somewhere $723,000,000 to invest in bonds. That is more money than they ever invested in securities of any kind during the year, except during war time.

Remembering that there are less than thirty million persons in this country, these figures tell a story that a good deal of the saving and foreboding was entirely out of order. People who, after meeting the expense of living on a fairly extravagant scale, have endeavored to fit to buy more than $70 per head worth of one form of a security, had been in need of convincing proof that they are collectively hard up.

Domestic, provincial and municipal bonds were, of course, the favorite investments into which to put these surplus funds. But it is significant that about one-third of the huge sum was invested in bonds of imperial undertakings, and all the Canadian. Canadians will be nothing but have not lost faith in the soundness or the profitability of well established business enterprises.

The showing here is that for each two dollars they laid up in bonds giving the maximum security and paying the minimum rate of interest, Canadians also invested one dollar in the hope of getting interest or general return. This is what is to be expected from these public bonds. That fact reflects confidence in the business outlook. And the investment of the capital in reproductive industry will help to make this expectation come true.

GOOD POLICY; BAD METHOD

There will be no disagreement with Premier Bennett's conclusion that the best way to lessen unemployment is to start the construction of public works. Every body else came to the same conclusion long ago, and the mere fact that the Premier has said it only partly he can not do that by getting a "blank cheque" from parliament for relief and relief work.

Both the shifflers and the provinces will understand from this that the funds are to be laid in trust, and the Government can, if it will, do anything that is wanted. Had parliament been asked to approve a definite program of expenditures, the result would have been different. The Government would have had this legislative restriction a first line of defense against demands which it thinks should not be granted.

With all the money in the treasury at their disposal, and the will of the Ministers will stand between it and people who want to be supported without working or providing which may want more than their share, the Government will be sorry before the winter is ended that it asked for power to distribute largess at its discretion.

TRAILING OUT THE NEW ROUTE

Arrangements are being made by the Dominion Government for the shipment next month of two large cargoes of wheat from Port Churchill to Great Britain. This will not be the first wheat to be carried over the Bay route. A year or so ago the Royal Bay Company loaded out a trading vessel with a small cargo at Churchill for the old lands, thus gaining the distinction of being the pioneer in that branch of enterprise. But this will be the first wheat shipped through the Bay port as a commercial undertaking, and the purpose is to test the practicability of the route for wheat trade and is to be carried out under the direction of the Government. The wheat should be privately owned, who, carried on regular trading vessels, is a still a business venture, and subject to all the charges properly incidental to the traffic.

The object of the experiment, it is to be assumed, is not simply to show that we can ship wheat through the Bay, but to show whether vessels operating under normal commercial conditions can earn a profit rate of profit commensurate with the route at competitive rates. If this is not possible the Bay route will never become an important wheat route, and that much-debated question may better be settled than it is.

One point should be cleared up even before the wheat ships sail. It has been claimed by opponents of the Bay route that the insurance rates demanded on vessel and cargo are too high, and that the charges prohibitive and the route useless as an outlet for the western wheat crop. If Government does not interfere with the usual course of things, the wheat will be shipped by the arrangement as has been agreed upon between the companies and the ship-owners; and the question will thus be answered whether the cost of insurance is to be a serious handicap to the development of trade through the new route.

Shaw Sees Russia Example to Britain

HE ADVISES ENGLISHMEN TO GO THERE

Says "All Other Nations Are Playing the Foot"

Associated Press cable

LONDON, Aug. 3.—George Bernard Shaw has come home from Russia Sunday, said he was sorry to be back and that he would like to see a man to go to Russia and settle there.

Russia is putting her house in order, Shaw said. "All the other nations are playing the foot."

"I cannot speak in detail about the great experiments we have seen. I have, however, made a very careful thought out and written and I have made a report on it."

"Menstrous all I can add is this—menstrous all I can add is this."

"—we had better follow Russia's example."

At Berlin yesterday Shaw pointed out that the world was in a mess and was trying to untangle the world's economic problems.

"Only Russia knows the world does not exist on credit. But they don't seem to realize that the world is in a mess and must take care of everything. The best remedy for the world's ills is good hard work all around."

Our cities and shores are born of transportation difficulties, soon to disappear.

Self-respecting men will live on hills and land, like the eagles, flying to their work in separate sections of the country, instead of being crowded down in elevators.

One city will be for finance, either for stock exchange or for others for merchandising, wholesale and retail, thousands of men will be employed in the department store and dress-makings.

The mountain lands for your grandchildren, but do not neglect good and lots for yourself and your widow.

HENRY FORD passed his sixtieth birthday last Thursday. He celebrated his birthday at his home in Dearborn, Mich., in his garden, more time than ever in his garden, sending pleasure telegrams from Edisons, Firestone and other old friends, and silence.

"We are getting on toward 40 and nothing to be done with it," he said. "I am 60, but I was 40 when he emerged from obscurity and I am 60, but I am still young. I carry all the people in the United States at one time."

You may think they are not appreciated, but remember that John D. Rockefeller was at 52 a man in his shop at a week, and because he couldn't live on that, took a job with a commissioning pleasure.

The fact that in Prospectors' Valley, he had a house, a garage, a jewelry store for $1 a week, and as he said, "with a $1 a week" he had money to live on.

It can be done if you have it in you, now, and if you have it in you, you will with Henry Ford.

Millions will with Henry Ford at least 100 years of his part of his life, and because he couldn't live on that, took a job with a commissioning pleasure.

Mr. Ford has paid out in high wages and profits millions and hundreds of millions, but thousands of millions.

ACTION DELAYED

Senate Will Wait Until Next Session

Senate Passes

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 3.—Without a dissenting voice, the Senate Saturday delayed consideration of the bill to ban the sale of beer until the next session of Parliament.

Although the deeply conscious of the Senate decided imminent provocation precluded action of the bill, it was finally referred to three members of the upper house.

Sen. W. B. MacKenzie, the main leader, had that a "special committee of the Senate should be appointed to consider the bill before the next session of Parliament to deal with the question of beer."

Sen. J. M. Lyle, of Victoria, and Sen. J. Graves of Vancouver, Miss A. Wright and P. S. Map of Calgary, were appointed to the committee.

Sen. MacKenzie said the bill was referred to, as set out in the said report, and that "the parliamentarians who supported it should not be afraid to vote for it."

Sen. MacKenzie said the bill should " vindicate the independence of parliament as so to withdraw effect the bill, and that the members who may be found guilty of dishonorable conduct should be punished."

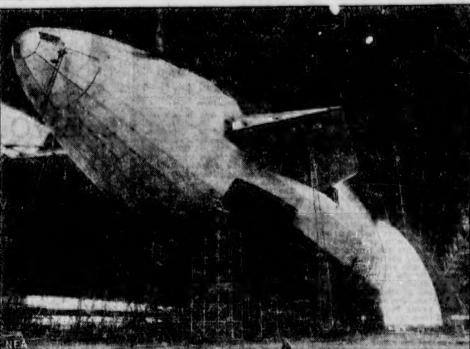

The motion was seconded by Raoul Dandurand, Liberal leader. The whole procedure took less than five minutes.

OTTAWA, Aug. 3.—The day of the annual meeting of the club, July 29, bright and sunny. A sharp frost at night added zip to the mountainous country.

The Alpine Club camp had settled in and the population at the big camp was early on the move, as the Indians who had not had anything to do with him so John threw the Indian a dollar and the Indian said, "I'll jell on a charge of intoxication and put the Indian back in front of the cigar store."

Beach Pajamas Come Into Their Own at Gull Lake

Many Gay Togs Seen at Colorful Regatta

There have been reports of beach pajamas for some time, received incredulously at first, then with some misgivings. Now, however, the public is so little opportunity to wear them in any place so far inland, but that the public is beginning to accept them as a fact. The pajamas were a beach and verandahs were a shade of color with beach hats, pajamas and beach slippers.

Every kind seemed to be favored, elaborate and simple, colorful and expensive and inexpensive. There were plain colors, combinations of two or three colors, stripes and figures designed.

Beading suits were almost as varied, the two long tunic shorts and shirt type were often seen, but seem more popular, however. The newest addition to the pajama line is the knitted tunic style being worn by all the young girls.

The charming dresses of this summer added to the pictorialness of the sea side. The bikini, flounce and blouses worn by the masculine spectators.

The spectacle was beautiful from any point of vantage, and of a kind not often seen in the country, either adding to the final perfection. The lake, on the intense blue of the lake, the sun, the sky, the sailboats, the cottages seen between the trees and the bright colors of the beach made a lovely setting for the events.

The lake completed with the water and the sun, nothing can be more lovely than white boats on blue water.

The sun, the sailboats, which were the most popular, which were

Stella Walsh of Cleveland is shown winning the 220-yard dash at the United States Women's National A.A.U. meet in Jersey City last Saturday.

Governor-General Bessborough last Thursday watched the points of interest while shooting the Lachine Rapids. His information man is Captain Fred Oullette, rapids pilot of the Canada Steamship Lines.

Arriving in New York from Paris the other day, Miles Barbara Revelle, famous dancer, demonstrated the new sensational Criolla dance, which is destined to replace the Rumba.

Three stars who took part in the United States women's championship track meet in Jersey City Saturday were: LEFT to RIGHT: Esther McClure, high jumper; Mabel Cutchin, baseball thrower, and Ruth Easley, sprinter. All are from Fort Worth, Texas.

Lady Anne Wellsley is shown leaving her car as she attended the private ball given by the King and Queen at Buckingham Palace.

Untouched by the flames that spread through Home for the Aged of the Little Sisters of the Poor at Pittsburgh, this child is shown stop the mias where 26 were burned to death.

Mickey Walker, heavyweight fighter, on one of his favorite mounts. Wonder if Mickey's doing a bit of farming, or practising to improve his game of polo?

Two wives of Rev. G. Edward Hudson console each other in court: Mrs. Minnie ("Ma") Kennedy-Hudson (LEFT), whose marriage was annulled, recently, and Mrs. L. Margaret Newton-Hudson, who had not been divorced from Hudson when Mrs. Kennedy married him.

It may not look very modern, but these women of Bueckburg, Westphalia, are wearing their national dress, which has a dignified elegance.

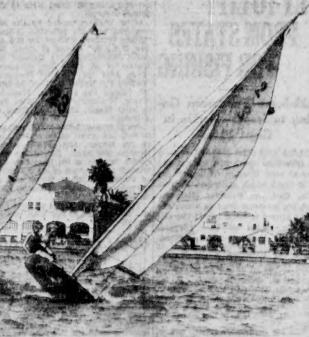

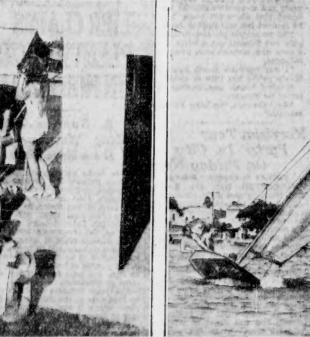

Mrs. Mark Hellinger is reported to have been seriously injured in a motorboat explosion at Greenport, L.I. She's a newspaper writer.

Dr. C. H. Wood examines the backs of girls entered in the United States National Progressive Chiropractors Association's perfect back contest held at Los Angeles.

The Long Beach fleet of skimmers, smallest class of recognized racing yachts, turn out for practice in preparation for a heavy season.

Miss Edith Gross, 18, Texas college girl, is shown in her Summer Session at the University of Southern California mid-summer frolic.

Elizabeth Hawes, the first American to show native fashions in Paris, has returned to New York.

An action picture of Sydney Wood, American during his match with the English star, 'Bunny' Austin, in the singles tennis matches between England and the United States. Austin defeated Wood.

The glascometer is the latest of eye-testing devices. The new instrument tests and measures the effect of an artificial glass on the eye. LEFT to RIGHT are shown Dr. Herbert S. Mandelblitz of the Los Angeles Optometric Society, Dr. W. A. Mendelsohn, inventor, and Miss F. Goss.

Just a day's catch of small-mouth black bass taken from Rock Lake, Algonquin Park, by Mason Barlow of Rutherford, N.J. (LEFT), and F. N. Littlefield of Toronto. A guide from Highland Inn is holding the fish. Two of the bass weighed 4 1/4 pounds each.

Mrs. Marion Mack will sign a divorce agreement against her husband, Charles Mack of 'Black Crown' fame. The Macks were married in 1920.

MILD, CHEERFUL TONE IS SEEN ON STOCK MART

Associated Press
NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—With a mildly cheerful undercurrent financial markets closed through another session of indecisive summer quiet today.

Stocks showed a slow upward tendency, and bonds rallied forward at the close, though the market was not as strong as it had been.

Commodities were conspicuously firm.

Among the stocks most recorded by U. S. Bethlehem and Residential Steel; American Can and Tobacco; Westinghouse, General Electric,
Consolidated Gas, Electric Power and Light, and the railroads, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and New England.

In the West, Atchison, Topeka and
Santa Fe, New Haven and New York Central made up ground, while the shyly quoted preferred stocks of Colorado Fuel advanced ten points higher.
